The Old Time Show Bottles

TIME was when colored show bottles were as characteristic of a drug store as the wooden Indian of the cigar store. But like the Indian the show bottles have largely disappeared. These originated from the ancient custom of pharmacists putting in the window large bottles of tinctures in process of manufacture.

It is a common remark these days that the windows of a druggist often do not reflect his profession. Times and customs change. If the pharmacist could depend for a living on the dispensing of prescriptions, the sale of sick-room supplies, medicine cabinet requisites, the making of urinalyses, and other professional services, he would not need to devote so much space and time to the commercial side of his calling. But if their number were reduced to an appreciable extent, many a community would feel a serious loss.

In order to maintain an efficient prescription department, ready to serve you when sickness comes, your Neighborhood Druggist must be a merchant as well as a professional man.

DOBERSTEIN FINED

The final chapter in that party by the river was written on Friday when F. Doberstein was fined $20.00 and costs at Red Deer for "Willful Damage" to property.

The Western Globe has been asked to publish a complete account of this case, as it appeared in a small town weekly yesterday. As the report in question only has an appeal to the world's mind, we can see no good in giving it more publicity. We are sure the intelligent readers of The Western Globe would not appreciate "news" of this kind.

EDITOR OF RIMBEY PAPER COMMITTED SUICIDE

Mr. J. J. Quinn, Editor and Owner of the recently established Rimbey "Record", committed suicide by shooting himself in the head with a shotgun at his office in Rimbey Tuesday morning.

Mr. Quinn, who was a veteran of the Great War, suffered severely from the effects of shell shock, and was subject to severe nervous breakdowns.

In July of this year he came to Rimbey from Forestburg where he had operated a newspaper for some time, and owing to the bad crops and general hard times in that district, he left that district to establish a newspaper in Rimbey. The Rimbey Record was progressing well at the time of his death.

It is believed that the constant worry over frequent nervous attacks drove him to suicide.

Although Mr. Quinn had resided in Rimbey only since July, he made a host of friends. He is also well known in the printing business in Alberta.

He leaves to mourn, his wife and sixteen year old daughter, in Rimbey, to whom the sympathy of the entire community is extended.

MYRTLE COCHRAN PASSES A.T.C.M.

Miss Myrtle V. Cochran, who is well known to Lacombe people, has succeeded this year in obtaining her A.T.C.M. (Associate Toronto Conservatory Music) degree which means that she is now a fully qualified teacher of the violin.

Miss Cochran began her violin studies with Mr. Toulson several years ago, and during that time, besides completing her Grade XII, then taking a position in the phone office, to which she had to give seven hours daily, won at Calgary in 1927 the Gold Medal and the Shield in the Senior Violin Competition of the Alberta Musical Festival, and in 1929 the Gold Medal, Cup to the Open Violin. The Shield was presented to her for getting the highest marks technically of any one in any branch of music in her grade. It has been said, and truly so, that it requires fifteen years to make an artist. Art is slow.

DEATH OF R. T. ROWLAND

Mr. Richard T. Rowland, a pioneer resident of this district, passed away at his home on Monday, September 15. Deceased had been in poor health for some time and proved a very patient sufferer.

Mr. Rowland was born in Vermont, Dec. 18, 1850, moving from there to Wisconsin, and later to Iowa, where he met and married Barbara Krisinger. Thirty years ago they came to Lacombe, where they lived for many years in the Iowa district, where they have lived ever since. Mr. and Mrs. Rowland received celebration of their Golden Wedding.

Besides his widow he leaves four sons, Edgar, of Oregon, and Medicine Hat, Hugh and Frank of Lacombe; two daughters, Mrs. Hugh Doel, of Wembley, and Mrs. Leslie Fitzell, of Lacombe.

A large number of friends gathered on the lawn for a service which was conducted by Rev. Mr. Layton, of Lacombe, and Rev. Mr. Wright, of Marmouthe. The Pall-bearers were Messrs. Ogilvie, Key, Kinley, Batcher, Eadie and Taylor.

Many beautiful floral tokens conveyed the heart felt sympathy of the neighborhood to the family.

CLIVE NEWS

Obituary

After a lingering illness, Arthur Wesley Lawson, aged 71 years and 7 months passed peacefully away at his home, Monday, Sept. 22, in Texas, where he with his family have resided for many years.

Mr. Lawson is numbered among the pioneers of the district, having come here with his family some thirty years ago, nearly all of whom were born and raised here. The deceased first living on the farm, made his home a social center, and in his early days, church services were held here. The funeral service was held in the United Church, Tuesday, September 23, at 2 p.m., and was largely attended, though the weather and roads were far from being good. Many floral tributes were given in deepest sympathy for Mrs. A. Lawson and the bereaved family, who are all living in Texas, are these sons: Mrs. H. D. Dobbie, Quebec; Mr. Fred Allison, Portland, Ore.; Mr. H. Williams, early in their late years; Clive, Roy, Bernard and Louis, at home; and the youngest, Mrs. J. P. Moore, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, who was the only one from a distance that was present at the father's death.

A very impressive service was held both in the home and at the church, on Wednesday, Sept. 24, at 3 p.m. Rev. J. N. Hargrove officiated. Interment was in the Texas cemetery. Profound sympathy is extended to Mrs. Lawson and her family in their bereavement.

Miss Margaret Maurer and Miss Barbour, of Lacombe have commenced their music classes and good classes are expected in town.

LACOMBE SCHOOL FAIR HAS GREAT TURNOUT

One of the most interesting and instructive events of the season took place on Saturday last at the Lacombe Exhibition Grounds—the School Fair. This School Fair was one of the most successful since the inception of the organization. Despite the fact that this season has been one of the driest in the history of Central Alberta, the Exhibits of grains, grasses, vegetables and flowers were exceptionally fine.

and showed plainly what a little cultivation and careful study can do in regard to this branch of farm industry. The exhibits of school work, including drawing, painting, manual training, etc., were indeed wonderful and drew forth many exclamations of praise for both the pupils and the teachers. The sewing and fancy work departments also received much favorable comment.

It hardly seemed possible that the little tots who entered sewing exhibits could be so proficient, some of their work would have done credit to people of mature age. And now we get to the holding department—cakes, pies, biscuits, cookies, tarts, bread, etc., would be almost impossible to find, and believe us, our reporter had one awful time resisting the temptation to make off with several articles of these delicious cakes—there were so many people around, it would have been difficult to do so without attracting a lot of attention. However, it can truthfully be said, that this exhibit was one of the finest ever presented in Lacombe. Although the handicraft exhibits, were exceptionally fine, the showing of livestock and poultry reflects the highest praise on these youngsters. A tremendous amount of time and patience must have been expended in preparing the various livestock for this fair. All through several prizes were given in each class, the prize exhibits were not by any means poor, and therefore judging was extremely difficult, and the judges in the various classes certainly had their hands full, and showed great judgment.

The number of entries this year far exceeded that of last, at which time this association took second place in this respect in the Olds district. In the poultry class there was an exceptionally large contribution, showing that much greater interest was being taken in this line.

The introduction of a stock judging contest under the direction of H. E. Wilson, brought forth much interest and brought a response of 50 entries. Three prizes were offered in this competition and points awarded as follows: Barbara Chessell, 86; Louis Albrecht, 84; Bill Ogilvie, 76; and Doris Oldring, 70.

Aside from the exhibits of farm products, including cooking, school work, etc., the recreational part of the fair received great support. Races and games of every description were run off, and all who entered showed great physical ability. Every item on the sports program was keenly contested and every race was close.

Too much can not be said in praise of this organization. The members of each committee worked tooth and nail to make this event the success that it was. Every part of the program went off without a hitch, and there were absolutely no delays in the entire day. Although there was a fair attendance, the crowd was not nearly as large as it should have been, considering the high quality of every exhibit. Everyone in Lacombe and District should get out and boost for this event next season, and make it one of the biggest affairs of the year.

A full list of prize winners will be published as soon as they are available.

A. T. WALDRIN ACCIDENTALLY KILLED

A verdict of accidental death was returned Friday night by a jury inquiring into the death of A. T. Waldrin. Mr. Waldrin was instantly killed when his car crashed into a freight train north of Ponoka on Thursday night last as he was driving alone. Mr. Waldrin, who was agent for Maple Leaf Oil Company, had been to the oil tanks. According to evidence he was only traveling at a rate of 12 miles an hour. The engineer saw the car and thought the man was going to stop. All the windows of the car were closed. The supposition is that Mr. Waldrin did not hear the train.

The train struck the rear end of the car and it was thrown against a cattle guard. Sympathy of the town is extended to his widow and six young children. Mr. Waldrin is 39 years of age and is survived by his parents, brothers and sisters. Funeral took place Sunday at 2 p.m. from United Church. Interment took place at the Forest Home cemetery.

RE-MAKING EUROPE

The interest which M. Briand's scheme for a federated Europe is attracting at Geneva is not discouraging. It has met with no opposition in principle although, of course, there has been consecutive criticism of the details and Italy urges that disarmament projects should be discussed before the federation can come within range of possibility. The project contemplates a step in the direction of a federation from which the political complications of the continent could gradually be evolved. There is nothing utopian, nothing cataclysmic, no overnight metamorphosis in the plan. A generation or two hence (perhaps sooner for the world moves quickly nowadays) it would be possible, the French foreign minister believes, for the nations of Europe to unify their policies, achieve coherence and sink suspicion and hostility.

It is hardly probable that the British Isles would become a member of the confederation. They are already members of the greater confederation which is called the British Empire, and complications of this kind for her and unacceptable to the various federated states of Europe would inevitably arise. But their absence from the federation would not weaken the idea. There is not the same need for them to join the federation. They have no hostile neighbors. France is still suspicious of Germany. So is Denmark. So is Poland. France is suspicious of Italy. Italy is hostile toward France on the one hand and domineering over Yugoslavia on the other and Yugoslavia is correspondingly on the defensive against Italy. An so on all the way across the map of Europe with Switzerland, Norway, and Sweden and the British Isles at almost the only countries which are not suspicious of someone else and against whom no one harbors a real or fanciful grudge.

The basis of M. Briand's doctrine is the thesis that it is the political unit of the United States of America on which the prosperity of those federated states rests. Nor is M. Briand alone among the political thinkers of Europe in so supposing. They not then, they say, look a little effect in Europe for a like cause? Political policies may be complex and divergent withal but the economic argument, today, as ever, transcends everything. When you talk to nations, as to men, in terms of guns and some of them get bored. When you start an argument about cruisers and battleships, someone is going to fall asleep from sheer lack of interest. But they all fall asleep when someone talks in the international language of bullion and specie.

Tariff barriers which could not be razed would be lowered and the fortresses in due time would be demolished along with the customs houses. And this, says M. Briand.

Fantastic? We would have said the same about the League of Nations that the fantastic scheme is now being discussed. But the hope for European peace, and therefore most of the peace of the world, lies not in the early fulfillment of the Briand scheme of confederation but in the fact that now—today—it is a portent of the will to peace.

Farms of Tomorrow

It does not seem long ago since the homesteaders were filing on their 160-acre quarter sections quite satisfied that this was as much as a farmer could be expected to cultivate. Then the theory became current that a quarter section was not enough for successful farming and the Department of the Interior put the pre-emption on the "market" and the homesteader was able to take up 320 acres instead of 160. But the Ontario coming west cited their little strips of land, maintained that as good a living could be made of 40 intensively cultivated acres as of even a quarter section of scattered crops on the prairies, and predicted that the day of the 40-acre farm would come in the West. Now it appears as if the prophecy like many another is going to prove the very reverse of the truth. Farming is entering the ranks of big business. The acres cultivated by individual farmers tend to be more rather than less and the day of the "whist factory" on a gigantic scale is already seen by some. The average size of the Western farm in 1926 was 370.5 acres in Alberta, 380.7 in Saskatchewan and 370.6 in Manitoba. This illustrates the tendency to expand for 1931 the average acreage was 388.6 in Alberta, 388.1 in Saskatchewan and 374.2 in Manitoba. This section of next year's census will be interesting as disclosing whether the tendency is still toward larger farms.

That the Western farm should be larger was the view of Mr. E. W.

Beatty, chairman and president of the C.P.R., expressed in Regina a few days since. A conference of agricultural economists also in Regina had only a few days before that reached the conclusion that the farming of tomorrow will be a thing not of mere sections but of 100,000 acre tracts made not only possible, but in some measure necessary by the extensive use of machinery in all farming operations. The farm of tomorrow, in other words, will be something of a factory and agriculture a manufacturing enterprise. The half-section farmer will then be reduced to the status of the vacant lot market gardener, epon to be either squeezed out of business or absorbed into the large corporation. The future of Western farming, then, becomes an interesting subject for conjecture.

Action Is Needed by Government

The courts commence the fall sittings on Monday, September 15. In view of the heavy list of cases to come before the District Court judges in civil matters and the long list of appeals in criminal matters, and a still further list of elections for speedy trials, before District Court judges, it may be asked, what the provincial government intends to do in the matter of appointing a magistrate to try cases which are heard under the Small Debts Recovery Act. The matter has been brought to the attention of the Attorney-General by both the bar and the Retail Merchants' Association, but although acknowledged that such a court was very necessary, Mr. Lymburn has up to date done nothing. We believe that such an appointment should be made at once with a suitable salary attached to the position. With the lists of cases to be heard by the District Court as large as it is, it is manifestly impossible that these already overworked judges can find time to deal with matters which should come before another tribunal. Nor is it either desirable or wise on the part of the government to delay indefinitely the announcement of such an appointment. The desirability of some speedy method of dealing with small debts has long been recognized by both business men and the legal fraternity, and the government clearly admitted this when they appointed a magistrate to deal specially with those cases. Unfortunately, however, in making this appointment, the government failed to make provision for the adequate enforcement of the magistrate's judicial orders. This omission greatly handicapped the effectiveness of the procedure, but this has now been cured.

It is high time now that such a court should be properly constituted, properly officered and adequately paid.

Business and Psychology

The present business situation comes within the domain of psychology rather than of economics, according to Lord Melchett. The British industrialists made this statement in a New York address. Coming from so eminent a figure in the latter field it must be given close heed. Basic conditions warrant revival, but this has been delayed through the state of mind into which the public has fallen. It has gone to extremes in its pessimism; just as last year it exceeded all prudent limits in its optimism. It is advised to be guided by economic considerations that justify confidence. This, however, can only be a temporary attitude on its part, as Lord Melchett emphasized. He pointed out that enormous accumulations of money were being in the banks and were available at low rates. Advantage of them would inevitably be taken at no distant date. "As soon as psychology begins to change," he declared, "and it is bound to change—despite all the world as situated today will not and cannot afford to allow those funds to remain unused—you will probably see a very great change right through the whole valuation of things and a retaking up of industrial development." People were in the habit of making fundamental mistakes and in his opinion this was true at present. The physical assets and exchange values were, he intimated, not at all in their proper relation.

No student of economic history can be in any doubt regarding the correctness of Lord Melchett's conclusions. It is the person who refuses to be influenced by the unreasonable depression that he finds all around him and shows courage under these circumstances who will profit most when general confidence returns. Fortunes have to a large extent been built up by declining to follow the crowd. The present is a time for exercising independent judgment and for those who do the rewards cannot fail to be great. The addresses that Lord Melchett delivered during his short visit to the eastern provinces and states have done a great deal to give a proper conception of the opportunities that are now open and to stimulate business hopefulness. It is a pity that he was not able to carry out his original intention and make a tour of the Canadian west. Though he has kept for many years in close touch with eastern Canada, in the development of which he has been a large factor, he has never been in this part of the Dominion.

Municipal Income Tax

It is difficult to imagine anything to which Canadian public would accede more unwilling than the proposed request of the Union of Canadian Municipalities, in convention at Hamilton, that the Dominion Government retire from the field of income taxation and leave it to the municipalities.

Even if the Canadian public had never already had a taste of municipal levies on income—it is being collected in a good many Canadian cities and under the more euphonious name of service tax in Calgary—they would be apprehensive of such a source of revenue being put in municipal hands. In the first place, supposing the Dominion Government did commit the folly of yielding to the suggestion, it would give municipalities a new source of revenue, of which few would neglect to avail themselves to the hilt and leave the Dominion Government with one less for which a substitute would be found. In other words, the poor Canadian taxpayer would be subjected to the new municipal income tax plus one or more other taxes which the Dominion Government would have to devise—it might be on sales or it might be in the form of customs duties or in increased postage rates, but rest assured the taxpayer would have to put up the difference.

Furthermore, everyone knows what a costly machine the Dominion income tax is to operate. If municipalities attempted to impose the levy as equitably and verify so closely as the Dominion Government does, either the income tax would not pay for its own collection or it would have to be paid for by another tax. There have been more disputes between civic tax-collecting authorities and the taxpayer over this tax, where the municipality levies it, than ever there was between the corresponding Dominion office and the same taxpayers.

Calgary Electrician Electrocuted

Charles Nichol, aged 25 years, 1620 Fourth street northwest, City electric light department employee, was instantly killed at 4:45 Sunday afternoon. His foot slipped and touched a high-powered line, while he was at work in the vicinity of Twenty-fourth avenue and Fifteenth street east.

Nichol was working at the time with Fred Austenhouse, lineman. Both were on the same pole, to which five cross-bars have been affixed, standing on the second bar from the bottom. At their heads was a 12,000 volt line.

This line was grounded, and it was on this that they were working. On the cross-places on which they were standing was a live 2,300 volt wire. Nichol slipped suddenly, and in an effort to save himself his foot struck a live 2,300 volt wire.

Austenhouse, realizing his mate's predicament and knowing that disastrous results would occur if Nichol touched the 12,000 volt line, immediately cut this. He then cut through Nichol's safety strap and lowered him to the ground.

"Pit" in all sizes at Morrison & Johnston, Ltd.

It cost a Railway St., restaurant keeper several hard earned dollars on Saturday last for "nauseating" Const. Archie McDonald. The restaurant proprietor had been throwing slops of various kinds in the Alley on Railway St. and when Mac tried to reason with him, and show him it was against the laws of the Town, he started a fair line of abusive language, in pretty badly broken English, but from words here and there one could interpret them to mean that he was a "fix" (x-44), and then some. This roused Mac's Scottish ire, and he immediately escorted the offending guest to the calaboose, and on his appearance before Magistrate Curran, donated five dollars and received a severe lecture in the bargain.

Keep the date, November 10th open for the big Last We Forget Club Armistice Dance. The dance by this Club are always good. Music by the Star 5-piece Orchestra.

The Lacombe Star Orchestra is now holding frequent rehearsals, and are ready for engagements anywhere at any time. They are ready with a complete new list of dance numbers, all the very latest procurable. Give them a call for your next dance—they will be pleased to talk it over with you. ## THE DAWN OF A NEW ERA

The present social conditions of the country have been dealt with very capably by Mr. Jas. Kinley in his book "The Dawn of a New Era". This instructive little work, Mr. Kinley has set forth suggested social and economic changes, of vital interest to the farmer's and laboring classes. Mr. Kinley's book is particularly opportune. Never before has there been so great a need for thinkers of his calibre to consider the economic situation.

Mr. Kinley shows us the situation plainly. And because he deals with it, not in terms of British Columbia, or Alberta or Canada or the Empire, but in terms of world economics, he gives us the key to the problem that faces us. The oppressed farmer may or may not agree with the author, but at least he will receive a new slant on the situation, he will receive no little stimulation to take his part in the solution of the great problem that is facing everyone today.

This book is now on sale at all bookstores and drug stores and can be purchased for the nominal sum of 50c. Everyone should procure a copy, and will undoubtedly find a lot interesting reading.

BIGGER DEFENCE FORCE ASKED BY WAR VETERANS

Winnipeg—Resolutions regarding the soldier settlement and old age pensions were unanimously passed by the twelfth annual convention of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada in session here today. The delegates also considered the defence forces of Canada insufficient in numbers and inadequately equipped.

The gathering decided to petition the Dominion Government to reduce to no more than one-half the annual payments called for under the new regulations of the Soldier Settlement Act until such time as the prices of agricultural commodities rose, and asked that the remainder of the annual payments be made subsequent to 1946.

Another resolution suggested that the government amend the Old Age Pensions Act to provide that in calculating the income of an applicant for pension, no account be taken of any pension for war service the returned man may be entitled to or be receiving.

The Government was also asked to place the defence forces on a basis commensurate with the material growth of the Dominion. These forces, it was declared, were in a condition never before witnessed in the history of Canada.

CANADA ASSUMES DIFFICULT TASK

Evictments following the action of parliament in prohibiting the export of liquor cargoes to the United States justify the warning issued by Hon. Mr. Eulder two years ago. The former minister of inland revenue pointed out in the house that having adopted that course, the Dominion would take on the burden of enforcement.

Formerly, as has been pointed out there was no contravention of Canadian laws in the liquor traffic, with the States. These engaged in it were not law breakers until they had crossed the international line in boundary waters. Now the traffic involves the breaking of Canadian laws and, as Saturday Night declares, the country has not the machinery to cope with the thoroughly equipped rum-runners.

Either illicit traffic is to be winked at and the rum-runners allowed to carry on as they please in this country or a costly preventive service will have to be set up to engage in the kind of warfare that has been going on in the United States. Liquor vessels are operating in Lake Erie, discharging their cargoes into small boats. Presumably it is destined for the United States, but part of it may reach bootleg channels in Ontario. The customs department seized one of them, fined it four hundred dollars and released it. It went back to its business in Lake Erie and the customs department has concluded it had no right to touch it at all. Both the federal and the Ontario authorities disclaim responsibility for interfering with the business, and no matter which is responsible, neither the Dominion nor the province is equipped to undertake its suppression.

In the meantime Volstead law officials in the United States can sit back and let Canada do it. Much of their trouble and work has been transferred to Canadian officials and in this country as in the States, it may prove to be a very thankless and expensive task. One estimate states that helping to enforce Uncle Sam's prohibition law will cost the Dominion at least $15,000,000 a year.

$10,000 CASH AWARDS

In the past few years Goblin Magazine has paid tens of thousands of dollars to fortunate Canadian contestants, a few recent awards will be noted elsewhere on this page. How else could you qualify with 25c to win $4,000.00? Better still, with $1.00 you can submit five coupons thus bettering your chance of winning a large cash prize and at the same time become a two year subscriber.

Here is an entirely new type of contest. Match your judgment and knowledge of baseball against that of our Contest Manager as to who can best estimate the number of hits made by each team in each game of the forthcoming World Series. Do not attempt to estimate the actual number of hits that will be made in each game but simply correct our Contest Manager's estimate by indicating, with an X on your coupon, whether you think the actual number of hits made by each team will be more or less or the same as shown by him. Mark your X clearly in proper square and note that it requires fourteen X's to complete each coupon. Each coupon is a separate entry. If any games are not officially finished they will not count. If series finishes before playing of seven games, your scoring on unplayed games will not be taken into consideration.

25c Qualifies You to Win $4,000

THE CARNIVAL

The people of Lacombe and District are in for the biggest treat in the history of the town—the Monster Hockey Carnival commencing next Wednesday night. A big time awaits you when the doors of the Lacombe Skating Rink are thrown open the first night of the Carnival. Come one, come all and get your supply of blankets and hams for this winter—there are also other prizes of every sort, kind and description to be handed out at the various booths. The booths will be run by members of the hockey club and to hear their lines of hallyhooping will be worth more than the price of admission. There will be something doing every minute and when compared to this Carnival, Jonny Jones' great midway falls into obscurity. There will be a miniature golf course, so get your golf sticks oiled up and try your skill. There will also be Bingo, Darts, Roulette, Duck Pond, Ring your Money, in fact every known and some unknown games. A large dancing platform will be constructed, and the Star Orchestra—Central Alberta's foremost dance band will be on hand to supply the peepiest of dance music. Dances will be held every night from 9 o'clock on, and everyone, young and old will have a real time. It costs you but a dime to get into the arena, and we are sure that you will get the biggest dime's worth of entertainment you ever had. Tickets will be on sale right away, so buy a few of them, and you have a good chance to win one of the valuable prizes to be given away each night.
